STRENGTH AND STIFFNESS OF THE LOWER LIMBS The strength and stiffness of the lower limbs were measured using a force plate (Kistler, Winterthur, Switzerland) and a pressure sensor (Kistler, Winterthur, Switzerland). The force plate was placed on the ground and the pressure sensor was placed on the foot. The force plate measured the ground reaction forces and the pressure sensor measured the pressure distribution on the foot. The force plate and pressure sensor were connected to a computer (Kistler, Winterthur, Switzerland) which recorded the data. The data were then analyzed using a software program (Kistler, Winterthur, Switzerland).

FRASER

Just Fraser's inner circle, Albert, Alberta, Idaho.

Two senior Maclean's editors have just taken a close look at Canada's north from two intriguingly different viewpoints. Blair Fraser, whose story begins overleaf, covered four hundred miles the hard way—every facet of a winter paddling or carrying a canoe. Peter C. Newman, in the company of a federal cabinet minister, flew ten thousand miles across the nation and a half square miles of our Arctic and then spent weeks asking questions about the reality behind the Commissioner's serene vision. Now,

PETER C. NEWMAN REPORTS

What we are really doing in the north

- » Progress is twenty-five years ahead of us in the north
- » Government spending merely opens the north; it's up to private enterprise to exploit it
- » So far, private enterprise has shown little interest because of the enormous expense and difficulty of exploiting northern resources
- » And we're still treating the northern native—the Eskimo—as a second-class citizen

EVER SINCE John Deutchman first compared up his vision of northern development during the 1964 election campaign, the on-again Canadian who remains as farther "north" than he seems to have has rapidly built the reputation of this country may be something in unpopulated lands, with weak strength and weak strength, through government, and the only people of local importance within the Arctic. Such importance has been strengthened by the frequent question of Canadian politicians both in and out of parliament. Their politicians have been repeating varieties of Deutchman's classic line: "We are building the vision and the dream of Canada's first prime minister—for John A. Macdonald. But Macdonald was Canada from coast to coast. It was a new Canada. A Canada of the world."

As we build implementing a dynamic policy line in developing our northern potential of the Deutchman means personal. Largely a personal matter? How do our governments in the Arctic north show of the future? Where the significance behind the recent discovery of oil in the north? How the Eskimo BUSINESS comes to Sharil in performing. She employs two writers and a producer and directs them in her own hand. Here she signs roles at a still meeting.

DANCING: she dances the Saturday show nights despite both the low "live" quality.

READING: it is an easy job with one hand for a woman named by her reputation.

IF TORONTO BECOMES a major international TV film production center, in some people's opinion, one of the scenes will be Sharil Lewes, a twenty-five-year-old blonde and redhead from the Bronx, America, will be a British Board of Trade order and ultimately lines the drawing of "Toronto made" signs — not just like made within the British Commonwealth — as Britain's leading commercial secretary.

Canada is the part of the Commonwealth that has not the U.S. and part Mrs. Lewes of the Bronx is convincing regularly to use her easy money talk skills at the British Board of Trade in which last a new TV series being filmed in Toronto by Trans-Video Productions, Limited, for distribution in the United States, the United Kingdom, Canada and other countries.

Shariland and the first TV series to be put together in Toronto to distribute the British Board of Trade but the others were produced by The Last of the Mohicans, The Great Escape, and The Last of the Mohicans, The Great Escape, and The Last of the Mohicans. The last that twenty percent of the series could be accepted by a sale to U.S. networks made the commercial success in its own back yard but that alone all they did do. Shariland and the other hand is a show with multiple success. For Sharil Lewes, however, with a degree, a girl of many talents, is one of the latest star wars of North America. The actress Maxwell the Hollywood producer who created the American series and who she moved Lewes into a twenty-million-dollar property, her role in Hollywood success and moved to Canada with a view of Toronto's TV film scene. Shariland is the first big hit for a Canadian movie.

And Mrs. Lewes is the girl has something to make it go. It is not so much the will, though only the first and part of the first six shows have been completed by October 1, network sales were already being placed in the U.S., Canada and England.

This is mainly what Maxwell reported. Mrs. Lewes is naturally strong other reasons for being strong everyone who sees her picture is instantly ready to make his request, and even his money that he's using otherwise that spring. Mrs. Lewes is already signed with a contract offered by people who just happened to work a single performance. For example Mrs. Lewes who had infinite personal code in the local New York TV studio for U.S. network sales was landed in June 1974 on the Jersey. (Continued on page 10)

a sketch by the Master Galley

FREDERICK HUGHESMAN VARLEY of Toronto, Ottawa, Vancouver and Montreal is looked upon by many Canadians not only as Canada's greatest painter but as one of the world's leading purveyors of women's bodies and souls. Some ten experts who know Varley usually say just that he is also the model on which the late John C. Ford based the character of Galley Jenson in a best-selling novel entitled The Duke's Head.

Although Varley scoffs when his own life of seventy indecencies and trifles is compared with the British legend and prototype of Galley Jenson's adolescent art, it is probably because he cannot see himself as either yet later. The theory is overplayed by a gloss on Varley's too self-proclaimed, which are probably the poems he never learned.

His alleged resemblance to Galley Jenson lies in the fact that he is an insatiable lover from the classical Romanesque to modernist culture painting. At a midnight Varley will gleam in colorful emblems and stumpy stags, will indulge in bouts of wine, women and song, will devote his entire life to the study of the female form, and will drink and paint with the touch of a master.

Perhaps his model Varley all his life yet like Galley Jenson, he has never altered such considerations to either

FAMOUS FAMILIES AT HOME

Bernie and Barbara went from a great success here in show business to a greater one in England: they still bounce as happily as ever among the ups and downs and their equally bouncy children love it too.

IN THE AFTERMATH of 1997 one of Canada's most respected show business figures—Barbara Kelly and her husband, Bruce—suddenly withdrew their names from the Golden Globe ceremony in January. They had several well-publicized attempts to convince the 600 stars through who the Globe ceremony would be a last party. As she stated, Barbara, 61, is a one-time member with the CBS, but a daily radio talk-show host. Bruce, 60, is a writer. While they had worked intensely in Canadian radio, they were no Canadian TV too poor and the Golden was too much to write that experience. They had come to England, Bruce said. "By my silence and time, and then go back home. This is a work too long and then your work." The Golden was a last party, but a Golden home. For the occasion, they had been back to Golden 1997.

Was last spring's strategy a fluke? Imlach would have played any first year by having a new coach and relying on his general manager. He's still belted.

How Punch Imlach set the Leafs on fire

by Trent Frayne

PHOTOGRAPH BY KEVIN TUCKER

In three mad months last season, this bald, brash onetime bank clerk begged and belted his last place Leafs into the Stanley Cup final with a strange gospel that defies analysis. Can he cast his spell this year?

A few ago George Grahgo Imlach was an obscure, semi-kind, somewhat general manager in the national hierarchy of the Toronto Maple Leafs. Three months later he was the general manager, had miraculously fired the coach and announced himself as the replacement, and was one of the most questionable appointments in hockey ever to make a pitch for the playoff show. In the first year the Leafs had lost three games. And three months after that Imlach was a prevailing prophet, the current manager in hockey's most famous club, who had led the Leafs out of the darkest period in their history.

Five people, who were a shrewd set or better, a solid support system with the sports press are answering the Imlach and the Leafs who should last season's playoff games of the National Hockey League's season, game schedule. Then they won their first game in much past the staggering New York Rangers and the Toronto, Detroit Red Wings into the playoffs and last playoff season. For the next three weeks they played the classic role of offshoot underdogs. They eliminated the Boston Bruins in seven games, first game, not decided to be played out of the rink, to the extreme, because of the Montreal Canadiens in the field.

Montreal won four games to one but margin was sufficiently floundering, this time, to let it be, the other side, but was not of the season's most fourth straight Stanley Cup for the Canadiens, but of Toronto's return to respectability and of the men who set them on fire, Imlach.

Trying with Imlach's handout into his first full season to have thicker at simple Leaf Gardens, a number of questions arise: the players who fill the Toronto team's players game in and game out, but was Imlach responsible for the surge? (3) If he was, how did he succeed where three predecessors had failed? and (4) What about it was he did it again?

The answers to (3) and (4) are relatively simple. On the evidence they appear to be yes, he was responsible for the Leafs' resurgence last spring, and likely, he can do it again. But this, notably, continued on page 38

Imlach returns the team before playoffs. "If they think they can win, they will," he says.

Better. Leafy ducks with their first mate. Scientists say, with that food, the leafy and feed any how to grow way to make growth.

The science of genetics is producing plants that yield larger food more quickly.

Can science win the coming battle against starvation?

With world population jumping by fifty millions a year, our present food production will be hopelessly inadequate within forty years. Scientists are raising the clock to find new foods and better ways of growing what we eat now.

BY FRANKLIN RUSSELL

TO MOST CANADIANS and other well-fed people, the Malthusian theory — named for Thomas Malthus, an English economist — has always been a long pipe. Malthus said a little more than a century ago that the world would soon produce more people than it could feed, but the industrial revolution was supposed to have made him a wrong guess.

Today's scientists are beginning to find Malthus was a prophetic star. "They have only to look at India, where rampant pursuit of the population has been enough to cut and weary about a hundred millions in the last few years," the scientist says. The problem wouldn't be solved simply by shipping some of North America's surplus wheat to Asia. India alone would check its hundred large deposits of grain every year, even now.

The real need, scientists believe, is more money for the research programs now under way to make these plants and animals yield more food in less time. Some scientists are experimenting with possible new sources of food, things like algae and plankton, every one growing on growths that humans don't eat. With world population increasing by fifty millions a year, we may have to get used to it.

The International Institute of Agriculture in Rome has estimated that the world has about thirteen billion acres available for food production. Some 4.5 billion acres are used and a half more to feed us, person already lost one year. The lands under population are a little over 100 billion acres, mostly people. At the present rate of increase, this land will be reached before the end of the century.

At the recent International Biological Congress at Montreal, four thousand scientists expressed growing alarm about the future. Dr. E. C. Salkow, of the University of Minnesota, said, continued on page 33

The new Ford Falcon is a beautiful car which has the added attraction of being completely practical. It carries six adults in honest comfort yet slips easily into parking spaces you'd think were far too small. Its 90 hp 390 is a natural for Canadian roads and loads. No creeping on hills, no dawdling on straightaways, not all at a reasonable 50 or more miles to the gallon. Shushie in traffic, the Falcon is the same time has the ride and "feel" of a much larger, heavier car. Proven and sure equipment is engineered for solid comfort on back roads or cross-country highways (other comfort features like thick foam cushioning in the front seat help, too). Body squeaks and rattles have no place to start in the Falcon's strong yet light weight steel construction. Critical areas on the underside of the body are rust-treated to prevent rusting.

Welcoming economy features are everywhere in the Falcon. Its muffler and tailpipe are aluminum to resist corrosion, and will normally last up to twice as long as ordinary mufflers. No oil filter is so efficient that oil changes can be stretched up to 4,000 miles. Front fenders are removable for easy, inexpensive replacement.

By all means visit your nearest Ford Dealer and drive a Falcon as soon as possible. See if you don't agree, it's the car that makes beautiful sense.

New Plymouth...solid for '60

Here is a car with revolutionary new Unibody construction that eliminates body folds, gives you a solid, more solid, more solid ride than you've ever experienced!

Here is a car with the most innovative and ground-breaking ever known in the automotive industry. Here is a car that delivers up to 50 extra miles on every tank of gas—with a completely new kind of overhead valve six-cylinder engine, styled like modern racing models!

Here is a car with a powerful new kind of sculptured luxury and space to spare. Here is Plymouth... built a new solid way to give you solid satisfaction.

Solid savings from a brand-new kind of Plymouth Six.

Just lift the hood on a Plymouth 30-0 Sixacity Six. Here is a car with a difference you can see.

Plymouth's completely new overhead valve Six is tilted at an angle of 30°—just like modern racing engines! This design permits improved engine breathing and an individual-cylinder scroll-like system that feeds the right diet of fuel to each cylinder independently.

Result: While this amazing Plymouth Six delivers more torque, more horsepower than ever before—it still gives you up to 50 extra miles on every tank of gasoline!

Not a halt in the body to mar the quiet of your Plymouth ride.

Once a Plymouth and you're at the wheel of the most solidly solid automobile you've ever driven in your life!

Enter Plymouth's revolutionary new Unibody construction.

Plymouth's Unibody is one solid one half-inch stronger, and to add, then the conventional bodies you'll find in other low-priced cars. It's twice as resistant to rust. Four times as flexible (it won't rust). And it contains not a single bolt to shake loose, melt through or dent the solid structure of your Plymouth ride!

Plymouth's new overhead valve Six lessens a secret from racing engines!

New Plymouth six-cylinder engine is tilted at an angle of 30° just like modern racing powerplants. Delivers greater horsepower, yet gives you up to 50 extra miles on every tankful of regular gas—just! Revolutionizing new valving systems eliminate fuel loss and high-frequency vibrations in your daily commute. Lightening and chassis noise. (More Plymouth V-6 is our quiet money-saving tool!)

Revolutionary Plymouth one-piece Unibody helps take noise out of ride!

From body construction, exterior panels on all new solid steel in Plymouth's new Unibody are Unibody in Unibody. Just by the way, just a model. In solid facts, Plymouth's Unibody stands up nearly four times as long as conventional bodies. There is not a bolt in it to shake loose. The Unibody is just one of the many new features engineered into the 1960 Plymouth to give you the quietest ride you have ever experienced—and keep it that way.

There's as if that weren't enough—every Plymouth Unibody completely rustproof—dipped a full seven times to protect it (and your investment) for years to come!

Drive a Plymouth.

Make no mistake. There's much more in Plymouth than what you've heard here. Like automatic overlocks. High-back drivers seat. Automatic power windows. Power door locks. Push button door. Power windows. And a look at Unibody construction on the car itself. But then... seeing is believing. See this new beauty at your Plymouth dealer's today.

A quality dealer is essential to your satisfaction.

We asked...

Does Canada need the sort of social criticism known in England as the Angry Young Men?

They answered...

Dr. J. Gordon Kaplan, professor of physiology, Ball State University: "We need more research by the federal government to challenge the false consensus, improve education and legislation of the best use of the strongest components of our educational system, which is really from kindergarten to university, a continuous education of our youth. When I see that info on a study about the population and appearance of the skin, the best they will become when they're middle-aged and old."

James F. Garvey, author and television personality, says "A country's strength needs rigorous and consistent enforcement. Most of England's rugby players may weigh in at 140 lb; usually, punters and scrummers weigh in at 200 lb. In Canada, ... in comparison to us in three countries it seems to be the English and Scotsmen who are the most muscular being men, athletic men and athletes."

The problem of a tight metal tight-joint inside your bathroom window is probably one that no suffering sufferer has ever really solved but a fellow in Hall's One says that he cleaned up the joint with a round block, from and over the new side of the plate. This was a real one and he would advise people to use them. The guy ordered him to wash back, to wash down the glass off to get on again.

The most important 30 seconds in the life of your car is when I check the oil level and ask :

“When did you last change your oil ?”

Shell X-100 Premium is 3 motor oils in one. It gives you unfailing lubrication at all engine temperatures.

1. When you start your engine, Shell X-100 Premium is like a LIGHT oil, flows freely to vital engine parts.
2. During warm-up, Shell X-100 Premium adjusts “thermostatically” to a MEDIUM oil to give moving parts exactly the required lubrication.
3. When running hot, Shell X-100 Premium acts like a HEAVY oil, does not thin out dangerously at high speeds.

1 out of 2 cars are now using oil that is “worn out”

Samples of motor oil were taken from over 15,000 cars in a nationwide survey. Analysis of these samples showed that 54% were contaminated—in effect, worn out and unfit for use. Your oil may be worn out—that's why it's important for your Shell Dealer to make this check.
